

Peer review at the Royal Society of Chemistry

Peer review is the cornerstone of scholarly publishing, and central to what we do as a society publisher. Follow the path through our peer review journey and discover key highlights along the way.

rsc.li/prw2022

An author submits a manuscript

9,600+ submissions a month
52+ journals to choose from 138 countries submit research

Peer review checkpoint

Journal dependent, authors can choose from up to 3 different peer review models

Single anonymised
Double anonymised
Transparent

Evaluation by global editorial teams

38 countries represented in our editorial boards
150+ professional editorial and production staff
428+ academic editors
3,500+ manuscripts per month benefit from our manuscript transfer service

Peer review

Our reviewers

164,000+ reviews completed

Our reviewers:
hold PhDs are active researchers have recently published in high impact journals

46,760 reviewers from 121 countries

21,500+ use our Publons partnership for recognition

500+ reviewers recognised in our outstanding reviewers programme

10.2 days between accepting an invitation and completing a review

Our editors consider each review

2,900 articles accepted per month
57 DAYS from submission to acceptance
30% of submissions are accepted after meeting requirements

Article production starts

10 days after acceptance, the author receives their proof

The research is published

27.5% of articles were GOLD open access in 2021
90 different countries represented in our authorship